Romagnola Breeders Sale

Saturday,
November 6th,
2010 12:00 p.m.

The cattle will be penned with a data sheet corresponding to the Sale Catalog for each lot that is selling. Prospective bidders must pre-register with the sales clerk. You will be given a buyer's card with your identification number. This gives you the right to participate in the sale without any obligation to bid or buy. You may inspect the cattle prior to the sale. Sale will begin at 12:00 p.m. Nov. 6, 2010. The cattle will be shown as per lot offered in the catalog. Terms of the sale are check or cash at day of sale unless satisfactory arrangements have been made with the seller prior to the sale. All fullblood registration papers will be sent to the RRA office for transfer to the buyer within 30 days after the sale. Cattle can be loaded out after checking out with the sales clerk after the sale is over. Present your health papers and receipt on the cattle to the men at the load-out area prior to loading.

Prospective buyers unable to attend the sale may call in their bids to Carlton Laxton or Chuck Lyons in advance of the sale, or call in a bid on sale day (731) 642-2282. Please establish credit prior to the sale through Carlton Laxton or Chuck Lyons, or letter or credit from your bank. On sale day, please use the sale day phone number; The phone numbers are as listed below:

Carlton Laxton, Cherokee Hills - Riverside Ranch (731) 431-7590

Dr. Chuck Lyons, Outback Romagnolas (731) 336-1971 (Cell) (731) 642-0456 (Home)

Sale Day Phone (731) 642-2282

Those unable to attend can register to bid and make arrangements prior to sale day.

Health:

Health Tests have been done as per TN regulations. Bulls are semen checked. Health and registration papers will be available on sale day.

Terms and Conditions:

1. Bidding: Each animal will be sold to the highest bidder without reserve. Auctioneer to settle any disputes.
2. Transportation is the responsibility of each buyer. There may be one or two private or commercial haulers available at the sale.
3. All cattle have been vaccinated, wormed, and have a current health exam.
4. Each animal becomes the risk of the purchaser as soon as sold.
5. Terms of the sale are check or cash unless satisfactory arrangements have been made with the seller prior to the sale. If credit has been extended by seller on a lot or lots, the seller must come to the check out table and sign a release form stating he is responsible for collecting the monies for the lot and release the animal to load out.
6. All animals must be checked out by the desk, and the buyer must be able to present a check-out sheet and health paper on each lot purchased to the men responsible for loading animals after the sale before any animal can be loaded.
7. All bulls have a "Satisfactory Breeder" semen test done within 30 days of the sale by a licensed Veterinarian or a professional collection center. All bulls are guaranteed to pass a semen test within 30 days after the sale. If they shall fail such test, another test shall be performed by a party mutually agreed upon and the results shall be binding. If the bull fails this test, buyer has a total of 15 days to return the bull to the seller, providing the bull is in the same condition as he was sold, for a replacement bull of equal or greater value, or full refund if no replacement is found.
8. Registration papers shall be sent to the buyer within 30 days of the sale.
9. All females that are sold as bred are guaranteed to be bred. Buyer has 30 days to return a female after the sale if examined by a licensed veterinarian and found open, and had not calved between the sale and the return of the animal. The seller has the right to attempt to breed or replace the female for an equal value within 90 days. The female must be returned to the seller in good body condition and in good health or the guarantee is void.
10. Open or exposed females are guaranteed to breed within 90-120 days of the sale if they are exposed after the time they reach sexual maturity. This is usually around 16-20 months of age. If they are found to be non-breeders, they shall be returned to seller at buyer's expense. The seller has 90 days to breed the female or refund the sale price. The female must be returned to seller in good body condition and in good health or the guarantee is void.
11. All sales are final unless herein guaranteed and stated.
12. Any changes in information will be announced from the auction box, and any such announcements will take precedence over the catalog information.
13. No cattle will be loaded out until 30 minutes after the sale to give the desk time to organize check-out, return all cattle to their pens, and give the workers time to assemble at the load-out area.
14. All bidders must check in at the registration desk before the sale to obtain a bidder number. Please check in as early as possible to help the desk.
15. Neither Carlton Laxton, Dr. Chuck Lyons, nor any other person connected with the management of this sale assumes any liability for the safety or welfare of any animal, person or persons attending this sale, and shall be held harmless against any possible mortality or morbidity of any person or animal.
16. Rights and Obligations: The above terms and conditions of sale shall constitute a contract between buyer and seller. Any dispute arising from cattle sold by Carlton Laxton or Dr. Chuck Lyons that can not be resolved, shall be resolved in Henry County Tennessee.

A Letter From
The Vet:
Dr. Chuck Lyons, DVM
Outback Romagnolas,
Paris, TN

Pictured are our second set of Romagnola cross Angus steers. After weaning, our kids got three of them ready for the Henry County 4-H Steer Contest, one of the most prestigious in Tennessee. We had them ultrasounded and the results amazed everyone.

Romagnola and Angus Crossed Produces the Ideal Carcass: Romangus Will Both Yield and Grade! Add Muscle and Bone to Your Herd, Which Will Add More Money to Your Pocket On Sale Day!

These calves were out of commercial Angus cows, some first calf heifers, that were bred to a Romagnola bull. Even the ultrasound technician expected them to have a lot of backfat in these heavy muscled steers. At around 13 months of age, all had less than .25 or 1/4 inch. That means no trim at slaughter! They had ribeyes of 13-14 inches and all have finished within one month high Choice.

This is exactly what the packer is looking for: high yielding, high grading, no trim carcasses. These steers would pay a premium in all categories.

Romagnola - The Definitive Terminal Sire

Written by: Jay Nixon

Packers, retailers and, most important of all, consumers are getting more and more particular in their demands for lean, tender beef, with less fat around the outside. Choice and Number One feeders are the kind that grow into finished cattle that will satisfy their demands.

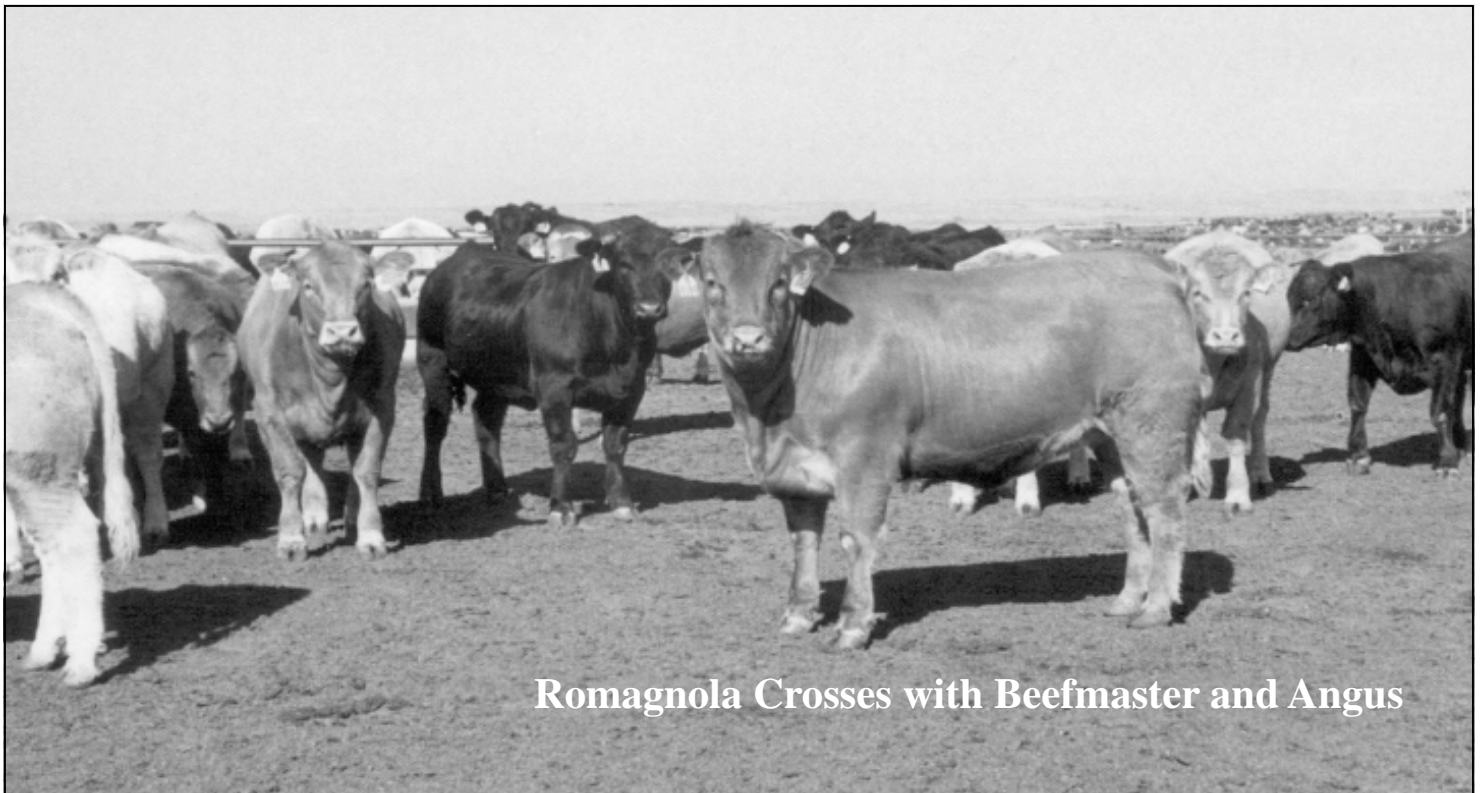

The price differential between Choice and Number One grade feeder cattle and Number One and a Half and Two grade feeders is from $8 to $15 per hundred on the same weight cattle and it continues to widen.

To produce Choice and Number One feeders out of most native cow herds requires the service of a bigger, longer, leaner, more muscular bull, a bull that can add dramatically to weaning size and weight, a bull that can smooth out the humps and crest, a bull that can add that visible muscling order buyers are looking for while maintaining low birth weights. For this reason, modern, progressive producers of feeder calves are moving, more and more, to Terminal Sire breeding programs in which all production goes to the feeder market and replacement females are purchased from producers in the business of supplying them.

Of the more than 130 breeds of American beef cattle, only a very few have remained sire breeds. Only a very few have escaped the tendency of American breeders and producers selecting hard for maternal traits in an effort to produce smooth, mellow females. In most breeds, selections for these traits have succeeded dramatically, so that even many of the once big, muscular Continental breeds now fall into the category of maternal breeds. As such, they no longer have the size, scale and muscularity necessary to produce consistently heavy, long, muscular, smooth feeder cattle out of most native cow herds. Romagnola Crosses with Beefmaster and Angus

- They are big but not gigantic. Most of them have a mature weight in the 2,000 to 2,500 pound range to give you calves that will wean in the 600 to 700-pound area.
- They are muscular cattle without any double-muscling, bred for draft in the early days in Italy. They have muscling on top, along the loin where the choice cuts come from.
- They tend to throw calves with low birth weights. Most naturally produced fullblood Romagnola and Romagnola crosses calve in the 65 to 85-pound range, and crossbred calves come at similar weights.
- They are intelligent and basically gentle with calm dispositions.

Of the few sire breeds that remain for use in the industry: Romagnola offer, more than all the rest, the qualities needed in an ideal terminal sire.

- They are athletic, aggressive breeders that get out on the country in any climate and breed cows.
- Ultrasound and slaughter data indicates that Romagnola produce very little in the way of outside and seam fat; in most cases less than 0.2 inches. Commercial packing house data indicates that crossbred offspring carry this same trait.

Indicus in the ancient Romagnola proven by blood typing that allows them to function well under extreme climatic conditions. They handle heat and humidity, as well as extreme cold very well and demonstrate a marked resistance to external parasites.

- The muscle fiber in Romagnola is extremely fine-grained and more genetically tender than the muscle of conventional breeds of cattle. This accounts for the demand for Romagnola and Romagnola cross cattle on the part of many branded beef programs in the country.
- Underlying the silver hair on the Romagnola is a black hide and the gene for color is recessive. They have black pigment around eyes that virtually eliminates pinkeye and on the bottom of the testicles which prevents snow and sunburn. Their hooves are black and hard, allowing them to travel easily over any kind of terrain. When crossed with black cattle, most offspring are black.

Considering the fact that the average terminal sire program produces more than twice the production income than one that grows its own replacement females, more commercial operations are moving in this direction every day. It just makes sense that as Romagnola become better known, these exceptionally profitable sires will enjoy tremendous demand on the part of producers seeking increased profits from their operations.

Important Traits of the Romagnola Breed

Trim Fat Genetically with Romagnola!

Gentle Disposition: Romagnola are very gentle cattle. This trait alone makes them your ideal choice whether you raise cattle as a hobby or on a commercial basis. Research has proven that gentle cattle do better on feed and hang a better carcass.

Fertility, Easy Calving & Excellent Milking Ability: The single most economic trait in the Beef Cattle Industry is the ability of a cow to give birth to her first calf at two years of age and then give enough milk to raise it on her own. Her second, and each calf afterward, should arrive within 12 month intervals. Romagnola cattle are very fertile. The cow to the right produced 26 embryos and from those embryos, produced 20 calves in one flush.

Efficient & Trouble

Free: Romagnola Cattle are known for their “Easy Keeping” and it is not at all unusual for a fifteen year old cow to have an udder that resembles that of a young four year old. Their teats are tucked-under, to allow grazing in cactus and prickly vegetation. The black pigment around their eyes, muzzle, tucked under teats and black hooves reduces or eliminates the problems associated with pinkeye, cancer eye, and sun burned udder or feet.

Growth & Hardiness: Romagnola Cattle have developed an ability that enables them to forage and graze in all kinds of adverse weather conditions. They thrive in either extreme heat or cold. We have tested many of our main herd sires calpain and colpas-tatin, and the results of these DNA tenderness tests show a higher percentage of the tenderness genes over other continental breeds. For Angus based cattle, “Rom” bulls sire black calves with low to moderate birth weights that are long and tubular at birth, then grow rapidly. With higher yield grades and mostly choice marbling, they produce carcasses that pays premium.

Tender, High Grading and High Dressing Percentage: Romagnola is right for the times. The meat is very tender and tasty. A thin rind of back fat with a light flecking of marbling infused in the muscle sets off the obvious quality of a good steak or roast. The beef butchers have been looking for this quality beef: low fat, but still full of flavor and tenderness that cuts at least 65% from carcass. “Romagnola beef is very different than most other domestic breeds in that the muscle fiber diameter is smaller, and because the volume of muscle they possess, Romagnola bulls will increase ribeye area on almost any cross. As far as backfat and marbling are concerned, it’s not uncommon for Romagnola cattle to have (point two.2) inches of backfat or less and still have enough marbling to grade Choice. Romagnola marbling is dispersed across the entire ribeye in very fine flecks, as opposed to some other breeds where you can get large deposits of fat or seam fat around the muscle area.
